Power
Chef[®]

Now, residents who enjoy the flavor of perfectly grilled foods can indulge their taste and be good neighbors at the same time. PowerChef electric grills from Dimplex use a new patent-pending technology that creates very little smoke, making them ideal for use in multi-unit residential applications.

The PowerChef line includes units that are designed to be built in during new construction and freestanding models that can be added post construction. Both types use a standard 120V, 15-amp household circuit.

PowerChef's unique EvenSear dual element cooking system reaches 650°F to sear food, lock in flavor and deliver even cooking results, with no flare-ups. In addition to perfectly cooked food, users are sure to appreciate PowerChef's economical operation and greener carbon footprint compared to conventional grills.
